$1000 off Invisalign Treatment - Core Dental

Canonical: https://www.coredental.com.au/1000-off-invisalign-treatment/

Details:

Core Dental is running a promotion that takes up to $1,000 off the price of Invisalign treatment. To claim it you quote the code INV1000 to a Core Dental staff member over the phone or at your consultation, and you must sign your treatment contract on or before Friday, 18 December 2026 . The discount is tiered: the full $1,000 applies only to Invisalign Comprehensive dual arch, with smaller reductions on the shorter treatment types. Every figure on this page is Core Dental's own published price guide, and Core Dental states it is a guide only, subject to change, and not a final quote.

How much comes off, by treatment type

The reduction depends on which Invisalign treatment is clinically appropriate for you, and whether it treats one arch or both:

Invisalign Comprehensive (dual arch) — $1,000 off

Invisalign Moderate (dual arch) — $750 off

Invisalign Lite (dual arch) — $500 off

Invisalign Express (dual arch) — $250 off

Single arch treatment, and traditional braces — 10% off the full-priced treatment

So the headline "up to $1,000" is reached on one treatment type only. Which type suits you is a clinical decision made at your consultation, not something you choose from this list.

Treatment with a general dentist: the published prices

Core Dental publishes these figures for Invisalign carried out by a general dentist:

Express — full price $4,450, you pay $4,200

Lite — full price $7,000, you pay $6,500

Moderate — full price $8,300, you pay $7,550

Comprehensive — full price $9,400, you pay $8,400

Treatment with a specialist orthodontist: the published prices

The same four treatment types carried out by a specialist orthodontist are priced higher, and the consultation is listed as valued at $100 rather than complimentary:

Express — full price $4,700, you pay $4,450

Lite — full price $7,850, you pay $7,350

Moderate — full price $9,350, you pay $8,600

Comprehensive — full price $10,700, you pay $9,700

The discount is the same in dollar terms at both tiers, so the gap between seeing a general dentist and a specialist orthodontist is unchanged by the promotion. A specialist orthodontist is a dentist who has completed additional registered specialist training in orthodontics; a general dentist may also provide Invisalign. Which is appropriate depends on your case.

What the quoted price includes

Core Dental lists the same inclusions against all four treatment types:

A consultation — complimentary with a general dentist, or valued at $100 with a specialist orthodontist

Treatment carried out by the general dentist or specialist orthodontist, as applicable

Diagnostic records and a personalised treatment plan, including an Invisalign simulation, which Core Dental values at $300

OPG and Lat Ceph X-rays, valued at $255 — Core Dental marks this item "rebate only"

Removable and/or fixed retainers, valued at up to $950, provided at the discretion of the treating clinician

Two of those inclusions carry conditions worth reading before you budget. The X-rays are marked rebate only, and the retainers are at clinician discretion rather than guaranteed.

What the quoted price does not include

This is the part of an orthodontic quote that most often moves, and Core Dental is explicit about it:

Final treatment costs depend on your personalised treatment plan following a clinical assessment, and are determined by the complexity of the condition, the required treatment time, the materials used and other clinical factors.

All fees are quoted before any health fund rebates, and do not include any preferred provider schemes, which Core Dental says must be quoted separately.

Cost estimates exclude additional treatment identified during the diagnostic or treatment process — restorative work, further orthodontic requirements, or other clinical findings. Core Dental states any such change will be discussed and quoted before treatment begins.

In other words, the published figure is the starting point for a well-defined treatment type, not a ceiling. Ask for your own written quote after the assessment.

The $50 booking deposit

A $50 deposit is required at the time of booking, online or over the phone. Core Dental states it is refunded when you attend your appointment, or can go towards any treatment. It is a booking-retention deposit rather than a charge for the consultation.

The take-home whitening kit

The promotion includes a complimentary take-home whitening kit, with its own conditions:

It is provided on completion of orthodontic treatment, not at the start.

It is available to patients who pay a deposit of $1,000 or more .

It is not available as a standalone offer and is valid only as part of the INV1000 promotion.

It cannot be redeemed separately, transferred, or exchanged for cash.

The $1,000 deposit condition is the one most likely to be missed, because it is a different $1,000 from the headline discount.

The price-match term

Core Dental advertises a 5% price-match guarantee. Its stated term is that Core Dental will price match any comparable written quote from a suitably qualified and registered clinician providing like-for-like treatment. A verbal quote, or a quote for a different treatment type or provider tier, would not meet that description.

Who the offer is not available to

Patients already in treatment.

Patients who have already signed a treatment plan with Core Dental Group or WHITE Clinics.

The offer cannot be used in conjunction with any other offer at Core Dental Group, and is not redeemable for cash.

Any further discount beyond the published promotion is at the sole discretion of the treating provider.

Payment plans

Core Dental offers interest-free payment plans with fortnightly instalments. These are offered through third-party providers, are subject to those providers' eligibility criteria and terms and conditions, and Core Dental states additional fees may apply. The payment plan is a separate agreement with the finance provider, not with the practice, so read that provider's terms and ask what the total cost is over the full term rather than comparing fortnightly figures alone.

What Invisalign is

Invisalign is an alternative to traditional fixed braces. It uses a series of removable, near-invisible aligners to move teeth. Core Dental describes each set as worn every day for two weeks before being replaced by the next set, which moves the teeth gradually into position.

Core Dental describes the benefits of straighter teeth as both functional — correct positioning making everyday activities such as chewing more efficient — and aesthetic, through correcting the alignment and spacing of the front teeth.

How treatment is planned

Core Dental takes digital impressions on site using an iTero scanner, which it describes as more precise than a tray of impression material and the fastest way to send records to Invisalign. ClinCheck software is then used to plan how the teeth will move through treatment and to show a projection of the result, and each set of aligners is produced to fit your own teeth.

Core Dental notes that every mouth is different, that there are a number of Invisalign types and treatment plans, and that a consultation is needed to determine which plan suits you.

What Invisalign treatment can address

Core Dental lists the following as conditions Invisalign treatment can address:

Gapped teeth

Crowded teeth

Overbite

Underbite

Crossbite

Open bite

Whether any of these is treatable with aligners in your case, rather than with fixed braces or another approach, is a clinical judgement.

Core Dental's stated provider status

Core Dental states it is a certified Invisalign Blue Diamond Provider, which it describes as placing it among Australia's most experienced Invisalign providers. Blue Diamond is a tier in Invisalign's own provider programme, based on case volume. It is a manufacturer's volume classification, not a clinical qualification or a specialist registration — those are separate, and the Dental Board of Australia is the body that registers specialist orthodontists.

Core Dental also states it uses only genuine Invisalign aligners.

Risks, suitability and consent

Core Dental makes several statements on this page that are worth reading before you book:

Treatment will only be provided if, at the consultation, it is determined that treatment is clinically indicated and of benefit to the patient.

Core Dental Group states it does not encourage or engage in the indiscriminate or unnecessary use of health services.

All procedures carry risks and limitations, and outcomes may vary between patients.

Core Dental encourages patients to seek a second opinion from an appropriately qualified dentist or registered specialist orthodontist before proceeding.

Risks, benefits and alternative treatment options will be discussed before treatment, and informed consent obtained before it begins.

The treating clinician determines the most appropriate course of orthodontic treatment based on your previous orthodontic history, current dental condition and treatment outcome expectations.

Nothing on this page is a diagnosis or a recommendation that you have orthodontic treatment. It describes a price promotion.

Booking

For a personalised treatment plan and an accurate quote, Core Dental asks that you call 13 13 16 to book an appointment with one of its clinicians. Quote the code INV1000 to claim the promotion.

Frequently asked questions

Is the discount always $1,000?

No. The $1,000 reduction applies to Invisalign Comprehensive dual arch only. Moderate dual arch is $750 off, Lite dual arch $500, Express dual arch $250, and single arch treatment or traditional braces attract 10% off the full-priced treatment. The advertised figure is "up to $1,000".

When does the offer end?

The contract must be signed on or before Friday, 18 December 2026. Signing after that date does not attract the promotion.

Do I have to do anything to claim it?

Yes. You must quote the code INV1000 to a Core Dental staff member, either over the phone or at your consultation. It is not applied automatically.

Is the $50 deposit an extra cost?

No. Core Dental states the $50 booking deposit is refunded when you attend your appointment, or goes towards any treatment.

Is the whitening kit included no matter what I spend?

No. The take-home whitening kit is provided on completion of orthodontic treatment and only to patients who pay a deposit of $1,000 or more. It is not available on its own and cannot be exchanged for cash.

Are the published prices what I will actually pay?

Not necessarily. Core Dental states the price guide is a guide only, subject to change, and not a final quote. Final cost depends on a clinical assessment and on the complexity, treatment time and materials involved, and the figures are quoted before health fund rebates. Ask for a written quote after your assessment.

Can I combine this with another Core Dental offer?

No. The offer cannot be used in conjunction with any other offer at Core Dental Group, and is not available to patients already in treatment or who have already signed a treatment plan with Core Dental Group or WHITE Clinics.

Does a payment plan change the total?

It can. Payment plans are provided by third-party finance providers under their own eligibility criteria and terms, and Core Dental states additional fees may apply. Compare the total payable over the full term rather than the fortnightly instalment.
